

Dr. Hüseyin Saygın is an Assistant Professor at the Faculty of Medicine, Cumhuriyet University.

Specialization: Graduated from the Faculty of Medicine at Cumhuriyet University.

The discipline of urology is concerned with diseases of the urogenital system. The scope of urology encompasses benign growths and carcinomas of the prostate gland, benign and malignant neoplasms of the kidney, and malignant neoplasms of the bladder and testicles. The faculty member is proficient in the diagnosis and surgical management of ureteric calculi, renal calculi, and bladder calculi. The specialty also encompasses the treatment of urinary incontinence and urinary tract infections in both male and female patients. The department also undertakes treatment of congenital urological diseases in children, including VUR, UPJ stenosis and hypospadias. The field also encompasses the diagnosis and treatment of diseases such as male infertility and impotence.